The Path to Building Supply Chain Agility in Healthcare

The COVID-19 pandemic has shown us all that global supply chains are not as agile, resilient, and reliable as they need to be to minimize the impact of global disruptions on patient and healthcare outcomes. Are you prepared for a new patient-centric supply chain mental model with improved agility, resilience, and reliability capabilities to withstand future disruptions?

This on-demand webinar brings together prominent strategists and practitioners—including academics, company executives, and leading supply chain authorities—to discuss the journey to an agile, resilient, and reliable supply chain. In addition to providing insights on how this will impact the transformation of the existing global healthcare business model, they will discuss:

- The Agile Supply Chain Credo: essential principles and guidelines that pharma and healthcare can adopt to bring change, agility, resilience, and reliability to healthcare.
- How the Credo is the north star on your path to agility, and the secret to powering supply chain performance in today’s turbulent times.
- The best agile practices that can be translated from other industries that have already successfully transformed their supply chains into customer-driven value networks.
- How companies can use this Agile Supply Chain Credo to change business
