TraceLink Announces Appointment of George Llado, former Pharmaceutical CIO, to Board of Directors

The former executive brings leading industry experience at multiple pharma companies where he successfully developed and implemented innovative technologies.

Boston, Mass. (May 12, 2023) – TraceLink Inc., the leading digital network platform company enabling end-to-end product orchestration by connecting more than 290,000 entities across the Healthcare and Life Sciences industry, today announced the appointment of George Llado to the TraceLink Board of Directors.

"I am delighted to join TraceLink's Board of Directors after more than a decade as, not only a customer but an admirer of their innovative serialization and traceability platforms as I worked with them to make the impossible possible for our patients. I couldn't be happier to play a part in providing next-generation technology that will fuse the supply chain and product predictability to reliably provide therapy to patients with devastating diseases."

George is the former Senior Vice President and Chief Information Officer of Alexion Pharmaceuticals, where he built the company’s Global Information Technology function that enables Alexion to serve patients and their families with rare diseases.

A bio-pharma industry veteran with over 35 years of business, information technology, and cyber-security experience, George and his team developed and implemented innovative technology and data-driven insights across Alexion's R&D, Commercial, and Supply Chain functions.

Prior to joining Alexion, George served as Vice President and business line CIO for Merck and Co., where he led the large-scale merger integration of Merck and Schering-Plough across the IT and Shared Business Services organizations.

In addition to this appointment, he serves on the Board of Charles River Laboratories and The National Center for Women & Information Technology. He also serves on the senior advisory boards of Sierra Ventures and Temple University's Fox Business School.

In 2023, in recognition of his many contributions, George was awarded the NSBE Boston Lifetime Achievement Award. He has also been named to Forbes CIO Next list, is a Boston CIO Leadership Association's Global CIO of the Year finalist, and is a recipient of the Information Technology Leadership Award from Temple University's Fox Business School.

Llado will be presenting at TraceLink's FutureLink conference May 22-24 in Boston, Massachusetts on leading digital transformation across supply chain networks, how to drive change, and find value.
